Acute Grief Responses

"The acute responses to loss are not unhealthy or maladaptive responses. Rather they are normal responses to an abnormal event." Kirsti A. Dyer, MD, MS

Acute grief is a definite syndrome characterized by psychological and somatic symptoms:

- 1. Sensation of somatic distress that occur in waves lasting for 20 minutes or to an hour characterized by: tightness in the throat, choking, shortness of breath, sighing, an empty feeling in the stomach, lack of muscular strength, and intense subjective distress described as tension or pain.
- 2. Intense preoccupation with the image of the deceased, as in waking dreams, accompanied by feelings of vagueness and unreality.
- 3. Guilt feelings.
- 4. Emotional distancing in relationships with others, accompanied by erratic responses of irritability, hostility and anger.
- 5. Disorientation behavior such as restlessness, insomnia, absentmindedness and an inability to concentrate or to initiate and maintain normal daily activities.

PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS:

Fatigue	Diarrhea	Dizziness	Crying
Restlessness	Headache	Lightheaded	Nausea
Stomach pain	Change in appetite	Weight change	Back pain
Sighing	Constipation	Tightness in throat	Palpitations
Shortness of breath	Chest pain	Trouble initiation or maintaining sleep

EMOTIONAL SYMPTOMS:

Apathy Sadness Fear Anger Numbness Guilt Irritability Abandonment Helplessness Longing Relief Loneliness Disbelief Anxiety Apathy Denial Vulnerability Panic Self Blame

Meaninglessness Emotionally labile

SOCIAL SYMPTOMS:

Overly sensitive Lack of interest Dependent Hyperactive

Withdrawn Under active Avoid others Lowered self-esteem Relationship difficulties Lack of initiative

BEHAVIORAL SYMPTIOMS:

Forgetfulness Difficulty concentrating

Feelings of unreality Assuming mannerisms of the loved one

Slowed thinking Feeling of emptiness
Sense of unreality Dreams of the deceased

Searching for the deceased Wandering

Sense of the loved one's presence

Hallucinations of the deceased

Aimless feeling – in a trance like state

Sensing their presence (visual or auditory)

Needing to retell the story of the loved one's death

Preoccupied with one's own death

Avoiding talking about loss so others won't feel uncomfortable